DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

The Amendment, filed on 04/23/04, has been entered and acknowledged by the Examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McGinley (US 1,650,289) in view of Timsit (US 5,190,596).

Regarding claims 2-5, the McGinley reference discloses an electric lamp in Fig. 1 which comprises a light-transmitting lamp vessel 10, an electrical element 19 in the lamp vessel 10 and current supply conductors 15,16 extending to the electric element 19. The lamp further comprises a lamp cap connected to the lamp vessel 10, which has a shell portion 24 and a base portion 20 which each support an electric contact member 21. Each electric contact member has a surface on which the respective current supply conductor 15,16 is soldered to a discreet solidified connection body 25,26. McGinley does not specifically state what type of metal the contact members of the lamp cap are made of. However, it is well known in the art to use lamp caps made of relatively inexpensive aluminum. McGinley does not specifically state what type of soldering material the solidified connection body comprises.

Art Unit: 2879

However, the background section of the Timsit reference discloses that a eutectic mixture of aluminum with an additive of about 12.5% by weight of silicone is an excellent well known brazing alloy for joining aluminum to metal surfaces (col. 1, lines 14-28). Accordingly, one of ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to have used such a well known soldering alloy as disclosed by Timsit as the discrete solidified connection body of the McGinley reference so as to provide a secure reliable joint for connecting the supply conductors to their respective contact members. By using such a brazing alloy only the surfaces of the members being connected are parts of the integrally formed brazed junctions since the brazing alloy has a melting point lower than aluminum. In the combined invention the discrete connection body and a surface of the contact member, and a different portion of discrete connection body and a surface of the supply conductor are parts of integrally formed brazed junctions.

Response to Arguments

The brazing alloy disclosed in the background section of the Timsit reference is used in combination with McGinley. The Applicant's arguments concerning the use of the Timsit reference are therefor moot.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 2879

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
